HAVANA, Sept. 16. — Shouts against the United States Government and its Ambassador here, Sumner Welles, were raised today as 8,000 Cubans paraded in paying tribute to Mexico's recognition of the Grau San Martin régime.

"Down with Sumner Welles!" "Down with American intervention!" "Down with Yankee imperialism!" yelled the marchers as cheers were raised for the new government.

The demonstration was staged in front of the Hotel Presidente, where Mr. Welles has resided since moving from the Hotel National, where several hundred former army officers have assembled to back their demands that President Grau San Martin resign. The Ambassador was not in the hotel at the time.

At Santiago, where conditions have been disturbed for some time, American women left the city and took refuge across the bay at Puerto del Sul.

It was reliably learned that Americans in the Santiago area have worked out a definite plan of evacuation if the situation becomes unbearable.

Meanwhile, in Havana, opponents of the Grau San Martin government, who have demanded that the régime resign in favor of a "truly nationalistic" administration, met and discussed their future course.
