COMMUNIST PARTY OF CUBA (P.C.C.)

COMMUNIST PARTY OF CUBA (PCC)

Central Committee of the Communist Party of Cuba (PCC)

On 3 October 1965, the Cuban news media announced the establishment of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of Cuba, made up of 100 members, the Politburo, the Secretariat, the Organization Secretariat and the following auxiliary commissions: Revolutionary Armed Forces and State Security Commission; Commission on Economy; Commission on Constitutional Studies; Commission on Education; Commission on Foreign Relations. The Commission on Revolutionary Orientation (COR) was established a few days later. The Commission on Labor was created in February 1966; the Commission on Legal Studies was established in late 1969 on a temporary basis. The latter is in charge of reviewing the Civil Law Code and the Defense for the Society Code and of organizing a new judicial system.

On 26 July 1970, in the speech delivered by Major Fidel CASTRO Ruz at Revolution Square, Havana, he said that in his opinion, the Central Committee of the PCC should have a Social Production Bureau in addition to the already existing political instrument of the PCC in charge of coordinating the activities carried out by every administrative branch.

Later on, the following five sectors were established at PCC Central Committee level: Construction; Transportation and Communications; Sugar Harvest; Education, Culture and Science; Consumer Goods and Domestic Trade Industries. The following commissions were also established: Commission on Construction; Commission on Transportation and Communications; Commission on Sugar Harvest; Commission on Consumer Goods and General Services; Commission on Internal Education; Commission for Servicing Central Organizations; Commission on Social Work.

Pursuant to the guidance of the Politburo of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of Cuba (PCC), on 24 November 1972 the Council of Ministers, in a session held for an administrative reorganization of the GOC, resolved:

- a) To create the Executive Committee of the Council of Ministers, composed of the Prime Minister as Chairman; a First Vice-Prime Minister; and seven Vice-Prime Ministers.

PCC

- b) To group all GOC administrative central organizations on the basis of their fundamental interrelations.
- c) The Prime Minister retained the direct supervision of a group of these administrative central organizations; the President of the Republic retained the direct supervision of another such group; and the remaining administrative central organizations were grouped into seven different sectors.
- d) The seven sectors in question are: Construction Sector; Transportation and Communications Sector; Sugar Harvest Sector; Consumer Goods and Domestic Trade Industry Sector; Education, Culture and Science Sector; Organizations Related With Foreign Affairs; Basic Industry Sector. Each of the newly appointed Vice-Prime Ministers were charged with the direction of one of these sectors.
- e) The first five of the already mentioned sectors, which had already been created and politically established at PCC Central Committee level, were transferred to the administrative organization of the GOC to form a part thereof in line with the agreements adopted by the Council of Ministers during its session of 24 November 1972.

Of the original 100 members of the Central Committee of the PCC, three have been removed from their positions: Efigenio AMEIJERAS Delgado, on 17 March 1966; Ramon CALCINES Gordillo; Jose MATAR Franye, on 25 January 1968. Three died in Bolivia where they were operating as guerrillas: Captain Eliseo REYES Rodriguez, on 20 April 1967; Major Antonio SANCHEZ Diaz, on 2 June 1967; Major Juan Vitalio ACUNA Nunez, on 31 August 1967. One, Major Eddy SUNOL Ricardo, committed suicide. At the time of his death, SUNOL Ricardo was holding the position of Vice-Minister for Political Affairs of the Ministry of Interior. The Central Committee of the PCC is now made up of 93 members.

Of the 93 members of the Central Committee of the PCC, 65 come from the ranks of the 26th of July Movement, 24 from the ranks of the Popular Socialist Party (PSP), and four from the ranks of the 13th of March Revolutionary Directorate. Of the 69 members of the Central Committee of the PCC who are not old-guard Communists, at least 10 were Marxist-Leninist sympathizers although they belonged to other revolutionary organizations during the struggle against the Batista regime.

PROVINCIAL COMMITTEES OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF CUBA (PCC)

The PCC has six provincial committees. Each provincial committee is made up of about 25 persons, among them the First Secretaries of the regional committees, and includes an executive bureau which is the real power in the province.

The provincial committees exercise the leadership of the PCC in each province and they are subordinated only to the PCC Central Committee.

There are 51 regional committees of the PCC. These regional committees are subordinated to the aforementioned provincial committees, and in turn the municipal or sectional committees are subordinated to them. The regional committees are in charge of supervising, controlling and directing the municipal committees, sectional committees and PCC cells located in their territory, in accordance with the directives issued by the corresponding provincial committee.

Province	Number of Regional Committees
Pinar del Rio	5
Havana	14
Matanzas	5
Las Villas	6
Camaguey	11
Oriente	10
Total:	51

There is an exception to the above-mentioned structure, the so-called Amancio-Tunas-Puerto Padre Territory located in the area formerly occupied by the former Amancio Rodriguez, Tunas and Puerto Padre Regions. The new territory includes seven regions and four municipal districts which are considered at region level. The PCC committee in this territory is subordinated to the Oriente Provincial Committee of the PCC and the PCC committees in each region and municipal district of this territory are, in turn, subordinated to the PCC Amancio-Tunas-Puerto Padre Territorial Committee.

CONSTRUCTION SECTOR (SECONS)

1. The Ministry of Construction (MICONS) was, in general terms, charged with planning and executing all construction in Cuba. At the same time, the National Institute of Hydraulic Resources (INRH), the INRA Construction Department of Livestock-Agricultural Facilities, the Industrial Construction Enterprise of the Ministry of Basic Industry and the Construction Sections of Local Government, were also charged with constructing various types of civil, industrial and livestock-agricultural buildings and facilities.

2. In 1967, the regime created the Che Guevara Brigade. Its purpose was to group all building machines under a single administration and to develop the construction of livestock-agricultural facilities. In mid-1968, the Che Guevara Brigade became the National Development of Livestock and Agriculture (DAP). In September 1968, Major Juan ALMEIDA Bosque was appointed as delegate of the Politburo of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of Cuba in charge of promoting, orienting and supervising construction projects throughout the country. When this appointment was made, the Politburo explained that MICONS, DAP and regional, local and sectional construction organizations would continue to be in charge of some construction work.

3. In May 1969, the INRH was dissolved. Its functions and personnel were transferred to DAP, at that time in charge of the construction of livestock-agricultural facilities. In July 1970, the Cuban Prime Minister announced that social production sectors, including the construction sector, would be coordinated and that the construction sector was already under such process. At the time of this announcement, the regime had recently established two new organizations: the Superior Technical Construction Center, (CENTSCO), and the Directorate for the Development of Social and Livestock-Agricultural Construction, (DESA). In September 1970, the Industrial Construction Enterprise and the Construction Materials Industry were mentioned in newspapers as organizations which made up the construction sector.

4. Once the Construction Sector of the Central Committee of the PCC was properly established and organized, the Ministry of Construction (MICONS), together with CENTSCO and other organizations, became the Fifth Branch or Technical Branch of the Construction Sector and Major Ramiro VALDES Menendez was appointed as Chief of the Construction Sector.

5. The Construction Sector is in charge of all type of construction facilities in Cuba, such as highways, secondary roads, hydraulic, maritime, school, livestock-agricultural, waterworks, sewers, industrial, etc. All mass organizations cooperate with the Construction Sector, primarily the Committees for the Defense of the Revolution (CDR).

SECONS

6. At the session of the Council of Ministers held on 24 November 1972 for an administrative reorganization of the GOC, the Construction Sector became part of the GOC administrative organization and Major Ramiro VALDES Menendez was appointed as Vice-Prime Minister in charge of this sector.

The Construction Sector comprises the following:

- a) Development of Social and Livestock-Agricultural Construction (DESA).
(With rank of Ministry).
- b) National Livestock-Agricultural Development (DAP).
(With rank of Ministry).
- c) Construction Materials Industry (IMC).
(With rank of Ministry).
- d) Industrial Construction (IC).
(With rank of Ministry).
- e) Technical Branch (RT).

EDUCATION, CULTURE AND SCIENCE SECTOR

In October 1963, when the Central Committee of the Communist Party of Cuba (PCC) was established, the Commission on Education was included among its different auxiliary commissions. The Commission on Education was presided over by Armando HART Davalos, member of the Politburo of the Central Committee of the PCC.

On 5 July 1970, Major Belarmino CASTILLA Mas was appointed Minister of the Ministry of Education, (MINED).

"Granma", in its 19 July 1972 issue, page 1, informed on the meeting held the day before by the Board of Directors of the Cuban Academy of Sciences, (ACC), and mentioned Belarmino CASTILLA Mas not only as Minister of Education but also as President of the Commission on Education, Culture and Science of the Central Committee of the PCC.

On 25 November 1972, Cuban news media informed that on 24 November, during a meeting of the Council of Ministers presided over by Major Fidel CASTRO Ruz and six of the remaining seven members of the Politburo of the Central Committee of the PCC, the new Executive Committee of the Council of Ministers had been established. The Executive Committee was made up by the Prime Minister, the First Vice-Prime Minister and seven Vice-Prime Ministers, each of whom is in charge of a sector of related Government organizations.

During this meeting, Major Belarmino CASTILLA Mas was appointed Vice-Prime Minister in charge of the Education, Culture and Science Sector.

The Education, Culture and Science Sector that was being organized by the Commission on Education, Culture and Science of the Central Committee of the PCC became a part of the administrative organization of the GOC.

Thus, Major Belarmino CASTILLA Mas, besides being Vice-Prime Minister in charge of the Education, Culture and Science Sector, continues holding the position of President of the Commission on Education, Culture and Science of the Central Committee of the PCC.

The Education, Culture and Science Sector comprises the following organizations:

- a) Ministry of Education (MINED). (See page #236).
- b) National Council of Culture (CNC). (See page #287).
(Subordinated to the Council of Ministers)

ECC

- c) House of the Americas (CA). (See page #298).
(Subordinated to the Council of Ministers)
- d) National Institute of Sports, Physical Education and Recreation (INDER). (See page #300).
(Subordinated to the Council of Ministers)
- e) Cuban Academy of Sciences (ACC). (See page #508).
(Subordinated to the Council of Ministers)
- f) Book Institute (IL). (See page #524).
(Subordinated to the Council of Ministers)
- g) Cuban Institute of the Motion Picture Arts and Industry (ICAIC). (See page #527).
(Subordinated to the Council of Ministers)
- h) Cuban Broadcasting Institute (ICR). (See page #533)
(Subordinated to the Council of Ministers)

MINISTRY OF EDUCATION (MINED)

In July 1970, Major Belarmino CASTILLA Mas was appointed to the position of Minister of Education. He was at the time Vice-Minister of Military Technological Education of the Ministry of the Revolutionary Armed Forces (MINFAR). After the new appointment was made, changes were introduced in the organization of the MINED for the purpose of controlling education at all levels. To this effect, vice-ministries were reestablished and other measures were adopted.

In August 1970, at a function held at the "Antonio Maceo" School of Combined Arms, Major Raul CASTRO announced that Major Jose Ramon FERNANDEZ Alvarez, Vice-Minister of Military Training of the MINFAR, had been appointed to the position of First Vice-Minister of MINED. Eduardo MUZZIO Gutierrez, who had been holding the position of First Vice-Minister of MINED, was made Vice-Minister of University Education of the MINED. This Vice-Ministry supervises the three universities which operate in Cuba.

We wish to point out that in 1964, the Cuban regime had created the so-called Council of the Soil, Fertilizer and Livestock Technological Education Plan headed by Leonel SOTO Prieto, an old-guard Communist who is a member of the PCC Central Committee. In 1968, the Council became a part of the Education Plan of the Military Service, and was given the name of Technological Education Plan. It was headed by Major Belarmino CASTILLA Mas who, at the time, was holding the position of Vice-Minister of MINFAR. Later on, the Technological Education Plan was turned into the Vice-Ministry of Military Technological Education (VETM) of the MINFAR, but continued to be headed by Major CASTILLA Mas.

When Major CASTILLA Mas was appointed as Minister of Education, Major Enrique BORBONET Gomez replaced CASTILLA as Vice-Minister of Military Technological Education. BORBONET was, at that time, Deputy Chief of VETM. Afterwards, the Vice-Ministry of Military Technological Education was transferred to the MINED and given the name of Vice-Ministry of Technological Education (VET). Lately, it has been referred to as Vice-Ministry of Technical and Professional Education (VETP). It controls technological and pre-university education.

The National Advisory on General Education Office which controls elementary and junior high school education, was turned into the Vice-Ministry of General Education. The National Advisory on Worker and Peasant Education Office which controls education given to adults who did not complete elementary or high school education, was turned into the Vice-Ministry of Adult Education.

On 30 November 1972, Major Belarmino CASTILLA Mas was replaced in his position of Minister of Education by Major Jose Ramon FERNANDEZ Alvarez who, at the time, was holding the position of First Vice-Minister.

The Ministry of Education is now in charge of supervising and controlling education at all levels.

MINED

The Ministry of Education (MINED) is oriented, primarily, by the military. The Minister and the Vice-Minister in charge of technological and professional education were transferred to MINED directly from the Ministry of Revolutionary Armed Forces (MINFAR). The Vice-Minister of Economy and General Services is a former FAR Captain and the majority of MINED officials belong, or have belonged, to the Revolutionary Armed Forces (FAR).

The Institute of Animal Science (ICA) was established in early 1964 as an autonomous organization. In May 1969, the Congress of the Institute of Animal Science was held in Havana. In the evening of 13 May 1969, Major Fidel CASTRO Ruz closed the Congress with a speech in which he pointed out the divergency between the work the Institute was doing and the work he believed the Institute should do. Later on, the ICA has appeared mentioned in the Cuban news media as a department of Western (Havana) University.

ICA's general objectives are to discover and develop the most efficient methods of animal production in order to turn the country's natural resources into food for exportation and domestic consumption.

CUBAN ORGANIZATIONS UNDER THE DIRECT SUPERVISION OF THE PRIME MINISTER

An administrative reorganization of the GOC was made at a session of the Council of Ministers held on 24 November 1972, during which the Executive Committee of the Council of Ministers was established. Also, the position of First Vice-Prime Minister and seven positions of Vice-Prime Ministers were created during this meeting.

Each of the Vice-Prime Ministers were charged with the direction of a group of central organizations which have been grouped together on the basis of their fundamental interrelations and Prime Minister Fidel CASTRO Ruz, who heads the Executive Committee of the Council of Ministers, retained the direct supervision of the following organizations:

Secretariat of the Presidency and of the Council of Ministers
(With rank of Ministry) (See page # 90).

National Institute of Agrarian Reform (INRA) (With rank of Ministry) (See page # 107).

Ministry of the Revolutionary Armed Forces (MINFAR).

Ministry of Interior (MININT).

Ministry of Public Health (MINSAP).

Children's Institute (Subordinated to the Council of Ministers).

During this meeting, Major Raul CASTRO Ruz was appointed First Vice-Prime Minister, although he continues to hold the position of Minister of the Ministry of Revolutionary Armed Forces (MINFAR).

MINISTRY OF THE REVOLUTIONARY ARMED FORCES (MINFAR)

On 21 April, 1972, Cuban news media reported that in accordance with Law No.1239 (that decreed the creation of new MINFAR Vice-Ministers in charge of the functions that this Law entrusts to the FAR), the following MINFAR Vice-Ministers were appointed by Decree of 19 April, 1972:

First Vice-Minister, Chief of Staff: Maj. Senen CASAS Regueiro. (Ratified in his position).

Vice-Minister, Chief of the Political Directorate: Maj. Fernando VECINO Alegret

Vice-Minister of General Services: Maj. Julio CASAS Regueiro. (Ratified in his position).

Vice-Minister, Chief of the DAAFAR: Maj. Francisco CABRERA Gonzalez. (He was already holding this position, but without the rank of Vice-Minister).

Vice-Minister, Chief of the Cuban Revolutionary Navy: Lt. Commander Aldo SANTAMARIA Cuadrado. (He was already holding this position, but without the rank of Vice-Minister).

Vice-Minister, Chief of the Directorate for Combat Preparation: Maj. Rigoberto GARCIA Fernandez. (He was already holding this position, but without the rank of Vice-Minister).

Vice-Minister of the FAR: Maj. Oscar FERNANDEZ Mell.

Vice-Minister of the FAR: Maj. Abelardo COLOME Ibarra.

On 18 October 1972, Cuban news media reported that Maj. Rogelio ACEVEDO Gonzalez had been appointed Vice-Minister of the FAR.

Later on, Cuban news media mentioned Maj. Oscar FERNANDEZ Mell as Vice-Minister in Charge of Permanent Infantry Divisions.

There have been no press releases concerning the functions that have been assigned to FAR Vice-Ministers Major Abelardo COLOME Ibarra and Major Rogelio ACEVEDO Gonzalez.

MINFAR

It is possible that Major COLOME Ibarra is in charge of Military Counter-Intelligence (CIM). Of all the Vice-Ministers appointed or ratified in their positions by the 19 April 1972 Decree, Major COLOME Ibarra is the only one who does not appear mentioned as assigned to any specific function.

In approximately 1959 and 1960, Major COLOME Ibarra held the position of Chief of the Rebel Army Investigations Department (DIER) and belonged to the military G-2. Later on, Cuban refugees informed that in 1963 and 1964, Major COLOME Ibarra was engaged in subversive activities outside Cuba.

On 11 November 1972, Cuban news media reported that Major COLOME Ibarra delivered the closing speech of the event held at the "Gerardo Abreu Fontan" Social Circle, FAR, Havana, to commemorate the tenth anniversary of the integration of FAR Military Counter-Intelligence Organizations, which were integrated on 7 November, 1962.

Permanent Infantry Divisions (DIP) National Headquarters

According to a report published in "Verde Olivo", 25 June 1972, the Permanent Infantry Divisions (DIP) were created with the purpose, among others, to help plant and harvest sugar cane. These troops, besides cooperating in the production, are given political and military training, a fact that makes them not only a new labor force, but a war-time military reserve.

Because the DIP is dedicated to help with the production, it gives the rest of the revolutionary Armed Forces the opportunity to fulfill their combat and political preparation more accurately and become better acquainted with their most modern and complex military equipment. So, without neglecting their fundamental mission of being well prepared to protect the invulnerability of the national territory, the FAR joins the people in a decisive struggle to bring the country out from its underdeveloped state.

After a thorough analysis of the reports provided by the Cuban news media, we have come to the conclusion that the DIP is made up, primarily, by Compulsory Military Service (SMO) members and that the DIP not only engages in tasks related to sugar cane planting and harvesting but also in agricultural-livestock activities.

CHILDREN'S INSTITUTE

(Organization Subordinated to the Council of Ministers)

The Children's Institute was created by a law passed on 31 May 1971. This law provides that the Institute be charged with the following functions:

- a) To group under its direction to supervise, orient and evaluate, all children's organizations such as Children's Circles, Foster Homes, Day Nurseries and all other government agencies formerly dedicated to look after pre-school age children that at the time the Children's Institute was created were controlled or directed by other government agencies or organizations.
- b) To direct, supervise and evaluate all activities related to the formation and improvement of the personnel that works with the children in the already mentioned institutions and to direct, supervise and evaluate the schools, centers and any other establishment created to that effect.
- c) The Children's Institute is also charged with the responsibility of promoting, coordinating and investigating the growth and development of children in their environment and with all responsibilities regarding any social and/or material situation that might benefit or affect any child. Among these responsibilities are to provide children with toys, clothing, furniture, food, recreation, etc.

The law that created the Children's Institute stated that because the National Directorate of the Federation of Cuban Women (FMC) is a mass organization closely related to Cuban mothers, it be charged with the direction and care of the Children's Institute and that, to that effect, a Directing Council will be created; that the Ministries of Education, Public Health, Light Industry, Food Industry, the Cuban Academy of Sciences, Cuban universities, and whatever other institutions might be deemed necessary, will have to cooperate toward the development of the Children's Institute by supporting its activities and by helping obtain all human and material resources to comply with its goals. The law also stated that within ninety days after its promulgation, the National Directorate of the FMC will submit to the President of the Republic of Cuba the regulations for the organization and operation of the Children's Institute.

At the session of the Council of Ministers held on 24 November 1972, for an administrative reorganization of the GOC, the Children's Institute was included among the organizations attached and subordinated to the Council of Ministers. The Children's Institute was one of the organizations which Major Fidel CASTRO Ruz, in his character of Prime Minister and President of the Executive Committee of the Council of Ministers, retained under his direct supervision.

CUBAN INSTITUTE OF INVESTIGATIONS AND ORIENTATION OF DOMESTIC NEEDS (ICIODI)

(Usually referred to as Institute of Domestic Needs)

(Subordinated to the Council of Ministers)

This Institute was created in mid-1971. It is in charge of obtaining from the field of consumer goods and general services a wider knowledge of the people's present and future needs and, also, to contribute to the best arrangements for production, distribution and general services projects.

The creation of the Institute was primarily due to the need of having an organization that, starting from actual production levels and from the planning of future production levels of the country, would be knowledgeable not only of present demands but also able to plan the demands of products and general services for the near future, taking into consideration demographic, occupational and age factors as well as the type of society that the GOC hopes to build in Cuba.

This organization is also charged with the careful supervision of the quality of products and services.

For its investigations, the Institute will receive the cooperation of the following organizations:

Federation of Cuban Women (FMC).

Committees for the Defense of the Revolution (CDR).

Central Union of Cuban Workers (CTC).

National Association of Small Farmers (ANAP).

Mid-Level Education Students Federation (FEEM).

Probably, the Institute is still in a state of formation.

During the session of the Council of Ministers held on 24 November 1972 for an administrative reorganization of the GOC, the Cuban Institute of Investigations and Orientation of Domestic Needs (ICIODI), was one of the organizations ordered attached and subordinated to the Council of Ministers but under the direction of the Consumer Goods and Domestic Trade Industries Sector.

North Oriente Mining-Metallurgic Project

On 12 December 1972, the directorate and new regional organization of the "North Oriente Mining-Metallurgic Project" was established at Nicaro, Oriente Province. Reportedly, this new region was created due to the strategic-tactical needs of the development project planned for this area where the world's largest nickel deposits (among other type ores) are located.

This new region enjoys the same prerogatives and rights of all the other regions in the country although its structure is not based on its territorial continuity.

During this event it was informed that Agustin NAVARRETE Sallabous, Vice-Minister for Development, Ministry of Mining and Metallurgy, was appointed as Director for this Project.

The Municipal Districts and metallurgic plants of Nicaro, Moa, Felton and Punta Gorda belong to this mining-metallurgic region.

MASS ORGANIZATIONS

UNION OF YOUNG COMMUNISTS (UJC)

The Union of Young Communists (UJC) was founded in April 1962 at the time of the last congress of the Association of Young Rebels (AJR), which organization it replaced.

The AJR was founded in late 1959 sponsored by the Department of Revolutionary Instruction of the Rebel Army, with the purpose of grouping youths who supported the revolution but did not belong to any previously established organization.

In late October 1960, when the First National Plenary Assembly of the AJR was held, all revolutionary youth organizations, including the Socialist Youth (Youth Section of Old-guard Communists), merged with the AJR.

The UJC is the youth organization of the Communist Party of Cuba (PCC) and its members are between the ages of 14 and 17. Youths under 14 may belong to the Union of Cuban Pioneers (UPC) which, theoretically, is an autonomous organization but, in fact, is controlled and directed by the UJC.

Youths who do not belong to the UJC or to the UPC are politically controlled by the Federation of Mid-Level Education Students (FEEM) and by the Federation of University Students (FEU). These organizations, although apparently of an autonomous character, are controlled and directed by the UJC. No youth under 27 years of age can escape the political control exerted by the UJC.

The most important tasks of the UJC consist in making sure that youths are given Marxist-Leninist indoctrination; that they engage in voluntary work and that they cooperate in the defense of the country.

The structure of the UJC is a carbon copy of that of the PCC. UJC base committees, which are the lowest level in the organization and similar to the PCC cells, are established at all educational centers and places of employment, be they stores, government offices, cooperatives, state farms or factories.

CENTENNIAL YOUTH COLUMN (CJC)

The Centennial Youth Column (CJC) was created for the purpose of grouping youths in an organization charged with doing livestock-agricultural work.

The CJC operates, primarily, in places where livestock-agricultural work is behind schedule and needs the assistance and cooperation of this organization.

Later on, it was decided that the CJC should also cooperate with other production sectors. As a result, the following CJC branches were created:

Maritime Youth Column. Primarily, to train young seamen who will be assigned to Cuban fishing vessels.

Textile Youth Column. Primarily, to incorporate youths into the textile field.

Nickel Youth Column. To assign youths to work in nickel mines and plants.

COMMITTEES FOR THE DEFENSE OF THE REVOLUTION
(CDR)

On 28 September 1960, upon Fidel CASTRO Ruz' return to Cuba after having attended the Fifteenth Ordinary Period of Sessions of the General Assembly of the United Nations, he delivered a speech in the City of Havana in which he announced that the Revolutionary Government was going to establish a nationwide system of collective surveillance organized in such manner that everyone would watch and be watched at the same time.

As a result of this speech, Committees for the Defense of the Revolution (CDR) were established on every block in all cities and towns and at every urban and rural place of employment. The main function of these committees at the time of their establishment, was the surveillance of activities against the Cuban regime.

Although surveillance is still its main function the CDR also cooperates with all type activities carried out in the country.

The CDR is structured as follows:

- National Directorate.
- Provincial Directorates.
- Regional Directorates.
- Sectional or Municipal Directorates.
- Block Committees.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF SMALL FARMERS (ANAP)

The National Association of Small Farmers (ANAP) directs and controls the owners of small farms still existing in Cuba. It determines which type of crop each farmer must grow on his farm and makes sure that the entire crop is turned over to the National Institute of Agrarian Reform (INRA).

PRENSA LATINA NEWS AGENCY (PL or PRELA)

Prensa Latina (PL or PRELA) was founded in Havana on 16 June 1959 with headquarters at 201 23rd Street, (fifth floor), Vedado Section, Havana. Although, theoretically, it is a semi-official news agency it is, in fact, one of the means used by the Cuban regime to spread subversive propaganda.

Prensa Latina is far from being objective because it serves the GOC and the information it provides is twisted and adapted to the political pattern of the regime.

Prensa Latina maintains offices and correspondents in several countries. For instance, in Latin America it had five main offices which were located in Mexico, D.F., Mexico; Lima, Peru; Quito, Ecuador; Montevideo, Uruguay; and Santiago de Chile, Chile. Recently, three of these offices have either been closed down or maintain a "skeleton personnel". These offices are:

Montevideo, Uruguay: On 16 June 1971, the Government of Uruguay closed the Montevideo PRELA office, confiscating all its furniture and fixtures. The chief correspondent's wife, the office delivery man and the women in charge of cleaning the premises were arrested only to be released shortly after. The chief correspondent, Orlando CONTRERAS Castro, a Chilean journalist, presumably left the country illegally because his name does not appear registered in the Immigration Department list of persons who are issued official departure permits.

Mexico, D.F.: In early February 1972, the PRELA office located on the Paseo de la Reforma was closed down and its personnel, with the exception of one correspondent, was dismissed. This office, active for at least 10 years, was the most important of all PRELA Latin America offices, having been in charge of publishing different bulletins and a great deal of important propaganda material.

Quito, Ecuador: On 5 May 1972, General Directorate of Ecuadorian Security agents arrested PRELA correspondents Luis HERNANDEZ Ojeda and Eduardo MARIN Gavia, conducted a thorough search not only of PRELA offices but also of PRELA correspondents' private homes where they found important papers and documents which they confiscated. The two PRELA correspondents in question were expelled from the country. They travelled to Santiago de Chile where they arrived on 10 May 1972.

Of the remaining PRELA offices in other Latin American countries, the one in La Paz, Bolivia, was closed down in late August 1972 by express order of the Bolivian Government.

PL or PRELA

Prensa Latina's European home office is located at 10 Rue Talma, Paris, 75 Paris XVI, France, and is PRELA's central office for its European Division.

In August 1972, it was reported that Prensa Latina is planning to expand with new bureaux in London and Africa. The PRELA London office will open in about a year from that date, and it will be in charge of reporting Great Britain news to Cuban and Latin American readers and also in charge of distributing PRELA reports on Latin America to Great Britain readers.

At the moment, PRELA maintains a part-time correspondent in London, Peter Hellyer, who is chief editor of third world reports.

The new African offices will be established in Dar-es-Salaam, Tanzania, and also probably in Freetown, Sierra Leone. The bureaux are being given priority as the agency, in step with CASTRO's solidarity with guerrilla movements, wants to keep in closer touch with the insurrections in Portuguese Africa, Rhodesia and South Africa.

Prensa Latina publishes "Cuba Internacional", a monthly magazine; "Latin American Roundup", a biweekly bulletin consisting of a selection of the most important cables issued daily by this agency in three languages; comments; articles and interviews.
