

From Walker.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 17.

The steamer Texas, from Greytown the 10th inst., has arrived at the Balize. The steamer Tennessee, from New York, with recruits and ammunition for Walker, had arrived at Greytown, as also had Col. Titus, with his recruits from Kansas.

Col. Lockridge had proceeded up the river from Greytown to Cody's Point, at the mouth of the Peripagua, where he attacked and defeated 800 Costa Ricans, with a heavy loss to the enemy and but a trifling one to himself. His steamer's machinery getting out of order, he was obliged to put back again to Punta Arenas. After repairing, he proceeded back again, and it was thought at Punta Arenas that he would in a week be in full possession of the river.

The advices from Walker's position are to Jan. 3d, received at Panama by the Orizaba. These advices are undoubtedly from Walker's agents, and are to be accredited accordingly.

It is stated that the allies under Coras, had made their appearance in the vicinity of Rivas, but were driven back. Also that on the 28th of January, Gen. Hunningen, with 400 troops, attacked 1500 Costa Ricans, at St. Georges, and after driving them from their position, returned to Rivas.

Walker's whole force is rated at 1300 men, of whom 1100 are fit for duty, and in good health and spirits, having three months supply of provisions, and ammunition.
