FATALITY OF NEGRO POLITICIAN

The fatality among colored politicians in Louisiana is one of the signs of the times. Any man who is a colored politician is likely to die from some mysterious cause. The New Orleans Times of a recent date calls attention to this list. Of all the colored politicians of any note in the state of Louisiana, there are but few who have lived past the age of thirty. This is a question for investigation and study.

The New York Herald calls the attention of the president to the fact that the enforcement of the provisions of the Fifteenth Amendment is being carried out by the Supreme Court of the United States. The Supreme Court of the United States has declared that the Fifteenth Amendment stands as a measure of punishment for the crime of violence and intimidation, and that the Fifteenth Amendment declares that the right to vote shall not be denied or abridged on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

The police act is unconstitutional. The police act is declared unconstitutional in the following language:

The New York Herald calls the attention of the president to the fact that the enforcement of the provisions of the Fifteenth Amendment is being carried out by the Supreme Court of the United States. The Supreme Court of the United States has declared that the Fifteenth Amendment stands as a measure of punishment for the crime of violence and intimidation, and that the Fifteenth Amendment declares that the right to vote shall not be denied or abridged on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

The police act is unconstitutional. The police act is declared unconstitutional in the following language:

The New York Herald calls the attention of the president to the fact that the enforcement of the provisions of the Fifteenth Amendment is being carried out by the Supreme Court of the United States. The Supreme Court of the United States has declared that the Fifteenth Amendment stands as a measure of punishment for the crime of violence and intimidation, and that the Fifteenth Amendment declares that the right to vote shall not be denied or abridged on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

The police act is unconstitutional. The police act is declared unconstitutional in the following language:

The New York Herald calls the attention of the president to the fact that the enforcement of the provisions of the Fifteenth Amendment is being carried out by the Supreme Court of the United States. The Supreme Court of the United States has declared that the Fifteenth Amendment stands as a measure of punishment for the crime of violence and intimidation, and that the Fifteenth Amendment declares that the right to vote shall not be denied or abridged on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

The police act is unconstitutional. The police act is declared unconstitutional in the following language:

The New York Herald calls the attention of the president to the fact that the enforcement of the provisions of the Fifteenth Amendment is being carried out by the Supreme Court of the United States. The Supreme Court of the United States has declared that the Fifteenth Amendment stands as a measure of punishment for the crime of violence and intimidation, and that the Fifteenth Amendment declares that the right to vote shall not be denied or abridged on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

The police act is unconstitutional. The police act is declared unconstitutional in the following language:

The New York Herald calls the attention of the president to the fact that the enforcement of the provisions of the Fifteenth Amendment is being carried out by the Supreme Court of the United States. The Supreme Court of the United States has declared that the Fifteenth Amendment stands as a measure of punishment for the crime of violence and intimidation, and that the Fifteenth Amendment declares that the right to vote shall not be denied or abridged on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

The police act is unconstitutional. The police act is declared unconstitutional in the following language:

The New York Herald calls the attention of the president to the fact that the enforcement of the provisions of the Fifteenth Amendment is being carried out by the Supreme Court of the United States. The Supreme Court of the United States has declared that the Fifteenth Amendment stands as a measure of punishment for the crime of violence and intimidation, and that the Fifteenth Amendment declares that the right to vote shall not be denied or abridged on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

The police act is unconstitutional. The police act is declared unconstitutional in the following language:

The New York Herald calls the attention of the president to the fact that the enforcement of the provisions of the Fifteenth Amendment is being carried out by the Supreme Court of the United States. The Supreme Court of the United States has declared that the Fifteenth Amendment stands as a measure of punishment for the crime of violence and intimidation, and that the Fifteenth Amendment declares that the right to vote shall not be denied or abridged on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

The police act is unconstitutional. The police act is declared unconstitutional in the following language:

The New York Herald calls the attention of the president to the fact that the enforcement of the provisions of the Fifteenth Amendment is being carried out by the Supreme Court of the United States. The Supreme Court of the United States has declared that the Fifteenth Amendment stands as a measure of punishment for the crime of violence and intimidation, and that the Fifteenth Amendment declares that the right to vote shall not be denied or abridged on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.