

AN INCIDENT. The Richmond, Virginia Star, says that on Friday last an auctioneer was selling a negro man ; the slave had before complained of suffering from rheumatism, and apparently disliking the business in progress very much, just as the auctioneer was crying " going !—going !" he was seen going, sure enough, like a streak of lightning, towards Cary street. After a run he was captured and carried back safely.
