WASHINGTON NEWS AND GOSSIP.

THE SICKLES CASE. -The New York Times is most persistently engaged in the work of preventing a fair and full trial of Daniel E. Sickles for shooting Philip Barton Key, by the publication of statements concerning the affair for facts, which are utterly untrue. Holding it to lows: be the Star's duty to labor to conserve the due administration of the law in this community without fear or favor, we are under obligations to the people of the District of Columbia (who are to be the sufferers if their criminal code be not as faithfully administered in the cases of those who have hosts of friends as well as in the cases of, the friendless) to expose the misrepresentations of the Times in this case. Thus, a few days ago, a writer in that journal, in the work of justifying the shooting of Key, proclaimed that an anonymous letter, warning him that his alleged clandestine intercourse with Mrs. Sickles was known to ner nusseaschen found on his (Key's) person when killed. This flucture Wawere Zebulon B. Bellows, of Certlandville, N. Y. present when the papers then about him were taken from Key's body, and know that no such letter was among them. The story of the receipt of such a letter by Mr. Key rests wholly upon the allegation that the wife of Mr. Sickles makes that statement. Her testimony is no testimony in law. But independent of that fact. her conduct in the affair, if the writers above referred to are to be believed, has rendered her statements utterly unworthy of credit on the part of sensible persons.

Another writer in the same journal's issue of controller writer in the same journal's issue of controller writer writer in the same journal's issue of controller her conduct in the affair, if the writers above ion here for the benefit of the killer; and, we think, the opinion of the judges of the courts of the District of Columbia, who, he alleges, have declared against the right of the friends of Key to employ counsel to assist the District Attorney to withstand the array of legal reputation, experience, and ability-Messrs. James

T. Bradley, and John Graham, of New York. Reverdy Johnson, of Baltimore, and Stanton, Chilton, and others, of this city-who are to appear in behalf of the accused, notwithstanding the newspaper writers in his behalf argue that his justification by public opinion here is so clear that the jury will not leave their box ere acquitting him. The judges of the District of Columbia are men of too much discretion and character to be thus expressing volunteer opinions likely to prevent a fair trial of the case. It is worthy of note that this writer, besides protesting against the propriety of investigating (in the course of the trial) the antecedents of both Mr. and Mrs. Sickles, makes the following statement concerning them, (their antecedents:) statement concerning them, (their antecedents)

i Parental opposition [to the marriage of Sickles and Miss Bajioli] in this, as in so many other deplorable cases, only ended in a clandestine marriage, which was performed before Mayor Kingsland, the Mayor of the city of New York. The consequences of this secret wedding soon made concealment impossible, and the marriage, after the full confession required by the Roman Catholic Church, was solemnized again, and received the seal of religious ratification from the hands of Dr Hughes, the Roman Catholic Archibshop, at his Hughes, the Roman Catholic Archbishop, at his private residence."

That Mayor Kinsland should testify to the fact whether he did really marry the parties as here alleged, before "the consequences of this (alleged) secret wedding soon made concealment impossible;" or whether such a certificate of a prior marriage was not obtained from him without its having taken place, as long since alleged by the press in New York. is entirely pertinent, we apprehend, to the jury's just conclusion whether Mr. Key was the seduced, or seducer-a question which all must comprehend to be important in determining the justification for the killing.
